Abbey found her love for cabinet design by pure accident. After falling ill and having no motivation for her major, she decided to drop out of college. She took to retail at a local home center until she could figure out what she really wanted to do for a career. She was placed in the cabinet department, and never looked back. “I knew I had found my dream job. It doesn’t even feel like work most days. More like a hobby.”

Fast forward to today and Abbey has made a name for herself in interior design in Lima. She admires the never-ending evolution of kitchen trends and prides herself on keeping up with them.

Abbey’s favorite part of kitchen design is a good challenge. “People will say ‘I wish I could do this or have this in my kitchen, but I don’t think it’s possible.’ I will try multiple designs to make it happen for them.” She takes pride in using her knowledge of design and functionality to make her clients’ dreams a reality.
