B.A.A. Interior Design, Central Michigan University

Designing since 2013 | Joined KSI 2020

Jessica knew from an early age that interior design was her calling. “I spent hours space-planning and designing dollhouses. From there it was quickly on to redecorating family and friend’s bedrooms and taking every art and design class I could find.” Jessica prides herself on her acute attention to detail. From the beginning of her career, she gravitated to the technical challenges intrinsic to kitchen and bath design.

Jessica’s design inspiration comes from her client’s interests and lifestyles. “Design is not about my personal tastes, it’s about the individuals I design for. I really try to connect and draw out what brings them joy.” Jessica’s design talent extends across the entire spectrum of styles. This creative freedom enables her to confidently develop solutions that meet the aesthetic and practical needs for her client’s homes and families.

With a busy family and work life of her own, Jessica can relate to the challenges that her clients face every day. Her project management skills and timely communication keep projects running smoothly so her clients can focus on what’s important in their lives. When she isn’t creating beautiful kitchens, Jessica loves spending time at her cottage, enjoying her family and reading a good book by the lake.
