Jim Ross has been working in the remodeling industry for more than 20 years. As an active member of National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI), Jim takes part in a variety of industry training. Recently, Jim was certified in Universal Design and enjoys helping people to plan for ageing and future, operable needs.

Jim process is to identify his clients' needs and develop a plan to achieve them. His versatile design skills and project management capabilities allow him to successfully complete the full spectrum of home remodeling projects.

Jim's favorite design challenge is to transition a basement into a functional, entertainment space. Basements can be a difficult part of the home to finish since they tend to be the "catch-all" for things you don't want seen on the upper floors. Jim believes the basement can be as comfortable and enjoyable as any other room in the house. By selecting the appropriate cabinetry, lighting, and colors, Jim creates a functional space that his clientele wants to spend time in.
