Matt has been working in the kitchen and bath industry since the early 1980's. Once starting in the business, he quickly discovered how much he enjoys working with clients to see their remodeling dreams come to life. An avid student of the industry, Matt regularly attends design and product seminars. Even more than his training, Matt feels working directly with clients is the biggest contributor to his expertise.

After more than 30 years in the business, Matt is highly sought after when it comes to design. He thrives on sharing his experience, product knowledge and design expertise with his clients. His favorite aspect of the design process is preparing and presenting drawings with new ideas for his client's kitchens.

Builders and remodelers regularly refer their customers to Matt for design assistance, space planning and product selection. They know they can trust him to treat the client right as well as help them to provide outstanding customer satisfaction. Matt consistently achieves this by delivering beautifully designed kitchens that function for the unique needs of each client.

While Matt's personal style is traditional he is also well versed in the spectrum of design styles including transitional and contemporary.
