“Born to be a designer” is not a cliché when it comes to describing Susan. Her instinct for design flourished in college, when she utilized her skills to renovate and resell homes. From there she launched a decades long career, honing her talent in both commercial and residential projects. Along with expertise in every facet of kitchen and bath design, Susan’s construction knowledge enables her to generate innovative ideas and solve unique design challenges.

Susan’s creativity is fueled every time she meets a new client. “I love making a difference in people’s lives by transforming what starts as a ‘wish list’ into a beautiful and functional reality.” She loves the transitional possibilities between design styles, blending them to create a unique space, perfect for the needs of her clients.

Susan taps into many sources for inspiration and has a keen eye for things others might overlook. One of Susan’s favorite hobbies is rescuing, refinishing and repurposing furniture and other materials – giving them new life in a fresh new space.
